

I have contacted Sinclair Broadcasting's and I have decided to also contact the FCC about Sinclair's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. This is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. This consolidation is obviously not good for the United States and the American people.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Yet a company that has made huge contributions to the Republican Party has taken over the airwaves of the country. Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. As Americans continue to see this type of behavior from broadcasters we will continue to become more and more involved in the process of breaking up this media giants.
